

Divers with Disabilities

People with disabilities can often participate in scuba training. YMCA Scuba has taken the lead in the development of safe, educated, well-trained sport divers, while minimizing the risks involved through training.

Based on the student's ability to successfully meet the requirements and challenges of the program, the instructor will determine any specific conditions placed upon the diver. The conditions will determine the level of certification the diver will achieve

