

Intro to Technical Diving

This course is designed as a bridge from the recreational diver to the rigors and discipline of technical diving, and is a great preparatory course for technical diver training or for streamlining your equipment configuration.

You will learn about dive planning, physics and physiology, decompression, and decompression associated with technical diving. The NAUI Technical Equipment Configuration (NTEC) course may also be available as part of your Intro to Tech course or as a separate technical course.

This is a great first step to a whole new world of technical diving!
